Description of the course

The e-learning course will be divided into several chapters. It will be an on-line tool for self-development of the trainers and educators from the CCS sector.

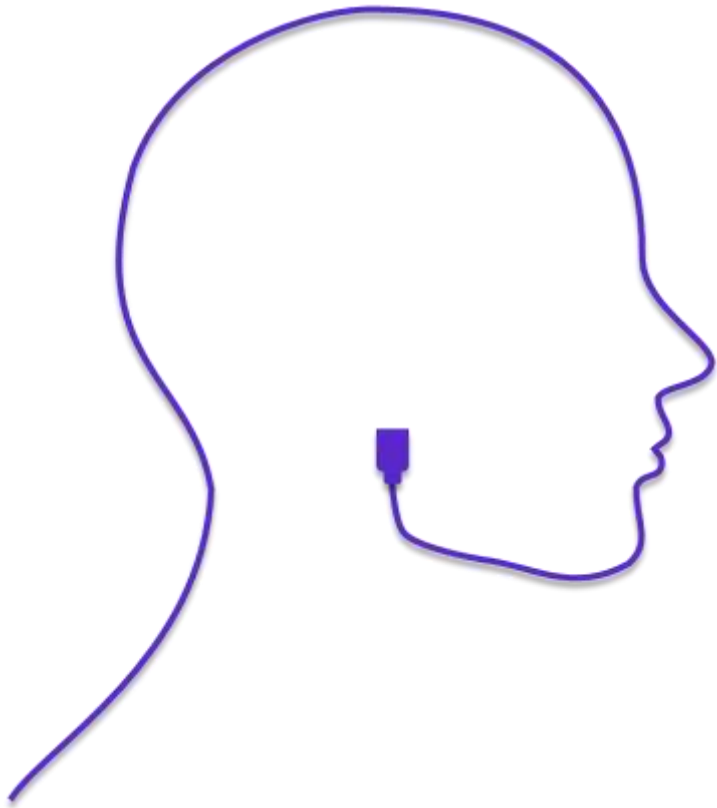

Two ways of using the course will be possible:

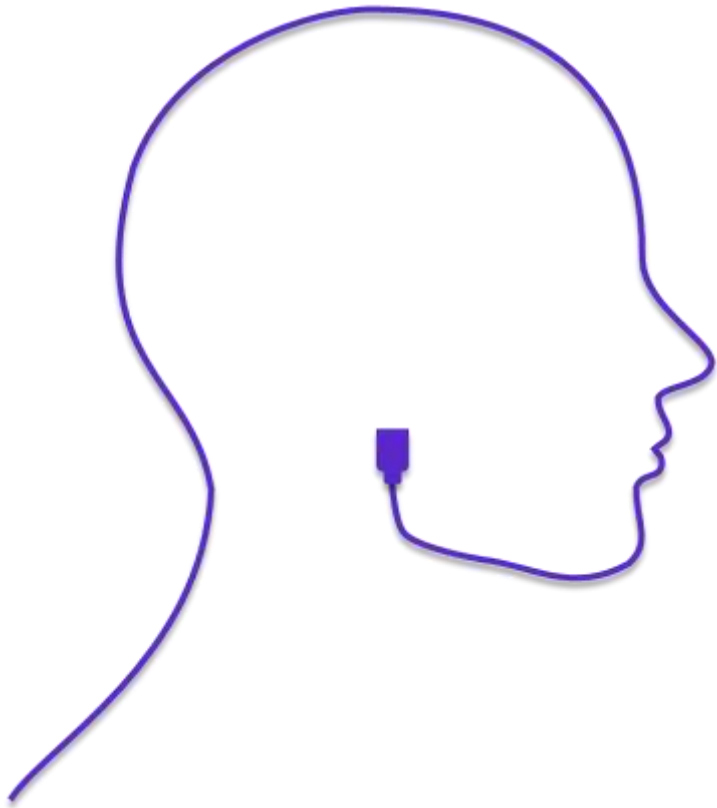

1) accomplishing the e-learning course and then starting the training programme with seniors;

2) doing the e-learning course as guide which helps to develop trainers' skills regularly and to implement them directly bit by bit (one-two modules before each training session with seniors)

Covered topics in the course

- How to teach senior online and offline
- Online communication
- Difficult situation during classes
- Creativity and how to teach it (a way of thinking)
- How to develop interesting topics for seniors
- Peer-learning in senior workshops
- How to teach seniors online while they are online
- Safety and privacy on internet
- Advanced Communication skills – speaking in attractive way
- Critical thinking /resources /fakenews
- How to use the web portal

Methodology

- The e-learning course was based on new technical solutions, making the course easily understandable, attractive, allowing self-assessment and reflection.
- To develop and host the course, the consortium used the Moodle platform.
- Each module contains: theory, practical exercises, multimedia, additional references.
